BATTLE OF BUSHERS

Homs Wagner tells this one on Artie Butier and Jinmy Vlox:

"Before Butier was traded to the St. Louis Cardinals he played short for Pittsburgh. Arthur and Vlox had a keen battle for a regular infield borth. One game Butler played short, Viox second: Artie fell chosing 5 Texas leaguer. Next day he slipped on a wet field.

"Down again," remarked Viox, sareastically.
"A few days later a ball took a bad bound, hit Viox in the mouth, knocked two teeth out and put Jimmy on his back.
"'Who's down now, you fresh busher? blurted Butler.

"Yes, I'm down, but I was knocked down,' replied Viox. 'I didn't fall down, like you.'"

STARS IN BROOKLYN'S SPURT

Mowrey and Olson, Cast-Off Veterans, Playing Brilliant Ball in Robinson's Infield.

The Brooklyn Superbas, who seem to be the best bet to date in the National league, are upsetting lots of good dope by playing fast and snappy ball in spite of the several veterans on their pay roll.

Wilbert Robinson is highly pleased with the showing made so far this season by his boys, and affirms that they are now started toward the pennant in too determined a way to be dealed.

Much of the pep shown by the Superbas should be credited to Mike Mowrey and Ivan Olson, two veteran infielders, who have been even castoffs and yet who are skipping about the infield for Brooklyn with a great show of spirits. Much of the enlivenment of the rest of the team may be attributed to Mowrey and Olson, who have put almost everyone right up on his toes. Mike Mowrey is also hitting the ball regularly and is climbing toward the 300 mark.

Jake Daubert has been leading the league at the bat and playing his fastest game around first. Zack Wheat, Stengel and Hi Myers in the outfield have given the Brooklyn pitchers the most therough support, though their hitting has not burned up the league. The catching staff, however, has been coming across with some nice, reliable stickwork. McCarty, Miller and Meyers all producing hits that were more timely than brilliant.

PREPARATION FOR MAN'S LIFE

Director of Physical Education at University of Kansas Laude Game of Baseball.

"Baseball is the greatest preparation for a man's life that can be indulged in," said Dr. James Naismith, director of physical education at the University of Kansas, recently. "The sport trains a player to be observant and to have self-control. It also trains the memory. If I had my way about it, I would have diamonds where at least 20 teams could play every day at the university." Doctor Naismith pointed out that the keen ball player usually developed into a keen business men.
